Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.
THE SUBJECT FOR DEBATE.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—The Hou mmittee of the Whole continued the discus-n of the Legislative, Judicial, and Executive propriation bill. Mr. Beck, of Kentucky, being Appropriation bill. Mr. Beck, of Kentucky, being outified to the floor took occasion to make one of the strongest speeches that have been made in the House this session. Great attention was paid to all he had to say. Dawes went over to the Democratic side of the House, where he sat actually at Beck's feet—learning wisdom, doubtless; while Gardeld shifted from one deak to another in search of a good place to hear, taking voluminous notes, on which we may account ng voluminous notes, on which we may expect o have an early reply to Beck's charges. Benjamin Butler then followed, ostensibly to eply to Beck, but really to deliver a long and ngeniously worded

Eric Road.

Butier quickly replied that nothing had been collected, and that the reason of the delay was simply that that corporation had set the newspapers an the track of the contracts, to create Mesars. Foster, of Ohio, and Beck, of Kentucky,—who were investigating in the interests of retranchment in the Bureaus of Customs and Internal Revenue, unearthed them.

Mr. Foster followed in a five minutes' speech in answer to Butier's defense of Sanborn and the contracts, in the course of which he said he felt justified in asserting that three-fourths of the collections upon which Sanborn lad received his 50 per cent were made, as set forth in your dispatches some time since, by the Internal Revenue Gueren, and that many of the cases were in process of collection by the Internal Revenue Bureau at the time that the Secretary of the Treasury made a contract with Sanborn authorizing him to take 50 per cent of the collection when made. Iostances in proof were cuted by Foster, and under his deliberate, scathing statements, made with unruffled composure, Builer grew pale, and fairly writhed in his seat.

Joe Hawley then got the floor to tell of the manner in which Sanborn collected money from a firm in Hartford, Conn., which he denounced as blackmailing. in his seat.

Joe Hawley then got the floor to tell of the manner in which Sanborn collected money from a firm in Hartford, Conn., which he denounced as blackmailing.

Here Mr. Builer attempted to be satirical, and avowed that he did not understand how this could be infamous.

As Geo. Hawley felt unequal to the task of making Butler's nature fine enough to enable him to discern infamy in any of its forms, he did not undertake the task. The debate grew spirited, and was carried on principally by Butler and Foster, to the intense astonishment and delight of nearly all who heard it, and the Honse and galleries were quite full.

while everybody else shrunk back from the Massachusetts bully, Mr. Foster boldly came to the front, and, although he never spoke more than five minutes at a time before to-day, with perfect composure and undisturbed nerve, and without descending to slang, or forgetting that he was a gentleman, lasked the braggart till the suffering depacted on his face became really pitiable. As Foster proceeded, exclamations of approval and delight were heard all over the hall, on the floor, and in the galleries. In conclusion, Mr. Foster rose, and begged to apologize for having mentioned the names of persons in their absence, referring to Sanborn and his tool Lucien Hawley, of New York, and stated that he did not know, however, but that he was justified in mentioning them, as they appeared by attorney.

At this Builer changed from pale to a chalky bine color; and, rising, could scarcely command breath to deny that he was their attorney; but he can be appeared by attorney.

To the promptly and fluently, he would not be Benjamin Butler.

Foster's unexpected burst of courage and display of nerve apparently, surprised nearly everybody. If certainly could sont have surprised Builer himself more if he had been charged with being a gentleman and incontestable proofs to sustain the charge had been advanced. He puffed and browed, and rolled his head about on his shoulders as shoulders as shoulders as shoulders as was haid before the Committee and copies appropriately distributed. A communication was also read from the Governor setting forth the rec cipts and disbursements of the District Government from its inception to date. Of the police fund, the total receipts were $260,000, and expenditures $261,000.

THE SCHOOL FUND.

Mr. Merrick called the attention of the Committee, in connection with the school-tax, to the fact that the Compusoller had said the school-fund was overdrawn $170,000 by reason of certain payments which had been made for school-buildings erected under the old corporation. This money was not chargeable to the school fund, but should have been charged to the old corporation. He said upwards of $15,000 has been charged against the corporation, and that, instead of the school fund being charged with a deficit of $73,000, it should be credited with $42,544; and, adding that to the amount collected, it makes a gross sum, up to March 1 of $106,183. That being so, and the monthly pay-roll being only $13,000, there ought to have been funds enough to pay the teachers up to March 1 of the current year. He submitted documentary evidence to show that the old corporation was charged with $215,000 which should not have been charged with $215,000 which should not have been charged to the school fund on account of buildings having been otherwise charged, the Sinking-Fund Commissioners having paid that amount. Such statement was made on the 3d of March, 1873. He also called attention to the United States statutes at large, showing that it was unlawful for any disbursing officer in the District of Columbia to divert from its legitimate object any money levied and collected and raised by taxes. He also proved by a colored School Trustee, that up to the time of the closing of the old corporation the colored school-teachers had all been paid in full, and were not in arrears as has been alleged.

IN SUPPORT OF THE CHARGES the memorialists submit, first, an advertisement for proposals for paving and macadamizing carriage-ways inserted in a newspaper by the Board of Public Works, the bids to be opened on the lats of September, 1871. They then say that the bids were not opened as per agreement, but that, on the 14th of September, a portion of the bidders received a notice making an appointment with the Board for a private consultation, and that at the appointed day, Sept. 15, a private meeting was held for the purpose of alding and assisting John O. Evans and his conclearates, and fifty contracts were then and afterwards awarded to Evans and his associates.

THE SPECIFICATIONS ALLEGE:

The contracts let and syarded John O. Evans as aforesaid aggregated in estimate costs $24,989.84; that the amounts paid said John O. Evans, according to the reports of said Board, amount to $80,716.55. The estimated cost of the contracts let to Lavis Claphane, $31,81,62; payments made him, $495,171.53; and to these three contracts were let of an aggregated estimated cost of $1,71,01,04.45; amounts paid, $1,767,38.99.

That the said Board of Public Works likewise agreed to furnish certain ceetly machinery owned by said District of Columbia, to be used and employed in prosequing said improvements by said contractors, and without charge.

That said Board of Public Works, without any previous public notice, likewise agreed with John O. Evans and associates, and cansed the same to be invested in their contracts as follows: "Provided that partial payments may be made under direction of said party of the first part, the said Board of Public Works, otherwise than under the direction of said engineers as provided above, if, in the opinion of said party of the first part, the vigorous prosecution of the work will be promoted thereby ",—which provision is not in the printed bianks enhibited to bidders prior to the ist of September,—thus enabling John O. Evans and his associates to virtually prosecute said improvements without advancing any considerable capital on their part, and to receive pay in advance of my fine provision or estimate of the work done by them.

That said Board of Public Works, likewise, to assist John O. Evans and his associates, permitted them to go as surveins for each other upon the bonds accompanying all of the contracts so far as examined by your memorialist, and thus permitted Lewis Clephane to execute the bonds attached to contracts aggregating $11,000, the said Lewis Clephane to execute the bonds accomposed in the frail of the work was each contractor to be limited to keep the improvements

THE HILLYER NOMINATION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—On Gen. Hillyer's own request, his nomination to be General Appraiser of Merchandise at the New York Custom-House has been withdrawn by the President. Hillyer became satisfied that Senstor Conking was opposing, and intended to continue to oppose, the confirmation of the nomination, and, feeling that the office was not of sufficient importance to warrant him or his friends in making a fight, he requested the President to withdraw his name from the Senate. He will probably be nominated to a more important and influential place. Senator Conkling's opposition to Hillyer is construed by many to mean that he has aspirations for the Presidency. He wants to prevent the appointment to office of men who are known to be favorable or in the interest of other aspirants as candidates for the Chief Magistracy.

[It is positively asserted here to-night by prominent gentiemen that to-morrow the President will withdraw the nomination of Gen. Hillyer as General Appraiser of Merchandisedn New York, at the request of that gentleman, and that he will send his name to the Senate as Naval Officer of the Port of New York, in place of Laffin.

COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—Jayne resumed his statement before the Committee of Ways and Means this evening. He said the Committee had been told by a gentleman now present (Schultz) that he had been going around among merchants and feeling the pulse of various patients. He had all respect for the honesty of purpose of that gentleman, but if you were to array all the convicts of all the penitentiaries in a row and ask them, "Are you guilty?" there would be one universal "No." If had been said he had made much money, but he could have made more by a single transaction, namely: by taking a check for a large sum of money to leave the city where he was not popular among those whose frauds he undertook to detect.

Mr. Foster inquired whom he employed as conusel.

to-day memors of the Chaego and the Chaego with this appreciation on our part of science, especially of that important section of which Mr. Proctor is so able an exponent, it is no wonder that he should receive a cordial welcome here. The great fire of less than two and a half years ago, which laid the best part of our city in ashes, may have crippled our resources for the nones; but it could not burn away our love of scientific research, or our admiration for those who lead the way in these investigations, and point out the path that we must trayel if we would become wise.

PROF. SAFFORD

point out the path that we must state it we would become wise.

PROF. SAFFORD

said he could add but very little to what had been said. Mr. Proctor's fame had long preceded him, not only as one who popularized science, but who had pursued a steady course of astronomical research of the highest character, and slee as the representative of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain. It was a very happy thought that we now had more frequent means of communication and comparison with the astronomers of other countries. Mr. Proctor, on his return, would continue his researches in the course already commenced by him—the mapping of the universe. It was pleasant to find that one science was so ably and thoroughly pursued by a man so well qualified as Prof. Proctor. It was becoming common among scientific men of all countries to keep up communication with each other, and thus the progress of science was uniform throughout the world.

I join in the congratulations so kindly expressed, and concur in the sentiments of Prof. Safford that in this work the scientific men of all countries are one, and it is a matter of congratulation that men can rise above all local feeling and labor in the cause of true humanity for the elevation of their fellows. Joining in the good feeling expressed, I hope Mr. Proctor will take back with him a good opinion and acquaintance with Americans and American scien-

It was never seen again. Astronomers then were led to inquire what had become of this comet. Tracing it back they found it was in a path so near to Jupiter that the giant power of that planet arrested it in its course, and sent it out on a path entirely different from what it was before. It was useless to look for it. This question then arose: How was it that this comet of very striking appearance had payer been ason ing space. It may seem a strange fact to say that it is rotarded, and yet it is traveling more and more quickly. But that is the effect of retardation in any instance.

This comet is traveling faster and faster on a smaller and smaller orbit. But I pass from that, and go to one, the facts revealed by which are among the most curious.—I mean the comet which was discovered in 1826. It was carefully watched, and then it was found that this comet had been seen before by Caroline Herschel and others, and a path was assigned to it, having a period of six years and eight months. Now this comet was in the first place remarkable, because its path crossed the earth's path; and, indeed, on the pext return, in 1832, astronomers announced that that comet would actually cross the earth's path, and many thought that that meant that there would be a collision, and great alarm was exolted. But that passed away, and nothing more was beard until 1846, and then the comet we found travelling on its usual path, and, to the great astonishment of astronomers, it was announced that the comet had divided into two parts, each having a distinct head and nucleus. It was noticed by Capt, Maury at the Observatory at Washingmigton; but, strangely enough, on the night when he observed the comet had doubled, the records of the Garman Observatory at Washingmigton; but, strangely enough, on the night when he observed the comet had doubled, the records of the Garman Observatory at Washingmigton; but, strangely enough, on the night when he observed the comet had coubled, the records of the Garman Observatory at Washingmigton; but, strangely enough, on the night when he observed the comet had coubled, the records of the Garman Observatory at Washingmigton; but, strangely enough, on the night when he observed the comet had only the comet had not the strange diplat; sometimes one and sometimes the observed along, side by side, and the strange diplat; sometimes one and sometimes and submitted in Europe. Two separated but the comet was never seen again.

WHY SOME TAILS ARE STRAIGHT AND OTHER

was a glorious display in England and America, but it was still more gloriously seen in Italy, where it appeared with all the glory of the large meteors, with a great number of minute ones. That shower came from the foot of Andromeda, or the exact spot that the comet would have followed if it had struck the earth.

We have them a very striking feature in the economy of our solar system. The meteors are following in the course of the somets. In fact, there is every reason to believe that there is so great a gathering of cometary matter following these meteor tracks that, when we see the sun in an eclipse, we should see a gathering there, as we do see in the corona.

METEORS ARS REPELLED FROM THE LABORS TANNERS.

If I was to say that the comets were shot out of the sun, you might be startled, or if I asserted that they were also thrown from Jupiter and Saturn. But the avidence of this is very curious. In the first place, we know that matter is abot out from the sun, with a velocity so great as to be carried far away from him, and so would travel forever away into space. That has only been observed a few times, but it is probably very frequent.

It is robable also that they are expelled from very frequent.

It is probable also that they are expelled from the great planets.

Let us consider thus: If comets are expelled from a planet, they will be carried along with the forward motion. If it could appear that some of them went backward, them we would have no evidence of the theory I have been advancing. If most of them travel forward, then we should have some evidence for the theory. Now there is this curious fact, that all the comets of abort periods, the whole of Jupiter's comets of abort periods, the whole of Jupiter's comet family, travel forward. They do not travel in all directions of slope; all have a vary moderate slope to the pash of the planet. They do not have the slope even of some of the asteroids. That is precisely what we notice—that they travel every much with Jupiter. Taking the balance between the two theories—that of expulsion and that of capture—it seems to be in favor of the more startling one—that Jupiter has had the power to expel these objects.

The fact must be remembered, that while showers of meteors are unusual phenomena, meteorites fall every day and every hour of the day. Our earth is absolutely growing by these. The time is actually past when the earth is growing visibly, but yet immense amounts of matter are added to it in this way. And not only the earth, but the moon and hiercury, and we may say all the planets are growing under this meteoric downfall. How are we protected from this downfall, with 490,000,000 of them every day? The rate at which they arrive is very much more rapid than that of a builet. If there was no protection we should certainly be destroyed. That protection is the atmosphere its velocity is direct reduced, and then it is concumed through the heat which is generated, and falls in the shape of a vaporous dust. On the tops of mountains the material of these meteors has been found.

It was developed early in the proceedings, however, that the primary ob-ject of the meeting was to organize for protec-tion from the unjust and unequal taxation of non-resident pine-land owners in the northern and sparsely-settled counties of the State, where lumbering is largely conducted. In the articles of association and by-laws presented to the meeting, this object was not specifically stated, and the discussion, which ocenpied the greater part of the afternoon, was mainly confined to embodying this idea as the mainly confined to embodying this idea as the primary and chief object of the association in the by-laws. The original draft of the articles of the association provided that any person owning or controlling 5,000 acres of pine land is eligible to membership, 5,000 was stricken out and 40 acres substituted.

The annual meetings of the association shall be held at Lansing, and semi-annual meetings at East Saginaw and Grand Rapids alternately.

The salary of the President and members of the Executive Committee was fixed at 95 per day for time employed and expenses, and that of the Corresponding Secretary 2109 annually and expenses. These points are embodied in the articles of association which were adopted. During the consideration of the by-laws, the question first indicated came up. After a long discussion, the whole matter was referred to a Committee of Five, to report to an adjourned meeting to be held to-morrow morning.

The meeting was very largely attended by lumbermen from all parts of the State. Perhaps 3,000,000 acres of pine-lands were represented, and upwards of $30,000,000 in capital. Ool. Stockbridge, of Kalamazoo, officiated as Chairman, and Charles W. Butler, of Lansing, as Secretary. RAILROAD NEWS.

even if it passes is open to many objections. It is uncertain as to the time when the work shall be done, as to the kind of type, as to the amount to be allowed for editing, would have to be paid for at the high rates of the contrast for printing, and generally is open to the objection that the State goes into the bookmaking and bookselling business, and when the State undertakes work that should be left to private enterprise and competition the people will be fleeced. There will be published 8,000 volumes of seasion laws which will serve all the purposes of the State, and if the statutes are needed they can be purchased from outside publishers. Mr. Gross will publish the statutes, and has offered 5,000 copies to the State at $2 a copy. It is doubtful if the State needs any such number, but if it does they can be bought from Gross at probably one-half the cost of the proposed Hurd publication.

Mr. Hurd has worked hard on this revision. It is his work, and will be bleased or cursed as Hurd's revision. He should be paid for his time, and the opposition to paying him for work already done is rather mean. While the State should not continue to employ Mr. Hurd on a work which is unnecessary, and would be an unjustifiable extravagance, it should pay him off decently and let him go.

The Bevision bill relating to plats, which passed this morning, secures, by an amendment inserted in Committee by the exertions of Mr. Peltzer, the right to any competent surveyor to certify to plats of subdivisions for the purpose of recording of all plats, in the Fecorder's office, of all openings, widenings, and vacations of roads, streets, or alleys, by the authorities by whom these proceedings are had, for the information of the general public, an object sought to be accomplished by a separate bill prepared by Feltzer during the session of last winter.

BILLS PASSED.

The House passed Senate bills revising the laws relating to ne exect; to slander and libel; to universities, colleges, and institutious of learning; to mines.

Strumm court reports passed the House. It diminishes the cost to the State, providing that only 800 volumes shall be distributed, instead of 640 as now, which will save from $10,000 to $15,000 yearly. The bill lets the contract to the lowest bidder, and fixes the maximum price to the profession at $3.50 a volume; and abolishes the lucrative monopoly so many years enjoyed by the reporter.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

The citizens and taxpayers of the Eighteenth Ward held a meeting last evening at No. 45 Chicago avenue, for the purpose of making arrangements for an honest town election on the 7th of April. The large salcon was grammed full of one of the roughest-looking crowds that ever assembled in this city, and but few looked as if the payment of taxes had ever worried their minds. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Charles Ranker, who nominated ex-Ald John McCaffery as Chairman of the meeting.

En. N'CATYERY being elected stated that they had assembled for the purpose of electing delegates for the Convention which would soon meet to nominate candidates for town officers. The spring elections were of great importance to the taxpayers of the North Side, and the people of the Eighteenth Ward were getting aroused, and they would see to it that none but honest men were elected to office. After some discussion the following were adopted:

THORIAS NAST.

That champion caricaturist, Thomas Nast, delivered his second "lecture"—which was, also, for the most part, his first—at McCormick Hall last evening. The auditorium was very fairly filled, but there was no crowding, although the heat was something approaching the unendurable. A redness of countenance was perceptible in almost every person in the sudience.

Mr. Nast appeared at the usual hour, accompanied by his factorium and the usual appliances of his edd calling. He has not changed in appearance. His hair is about the same; so is his teard, and his face preserves the aly, cardonic expression familiar to thousands of cirious ethicas, and citates who are not so curious. Mr. Nast has a voice which is not tuned to cratory. It is weak, and lacks the dignity which should belong to fame. The artist goes about his work like an expert paper-hanger or bill-poster, and stonehes up his figures with magical rapidity. As usual, his genius last night manifested itself in reproducing his old stock in trade,—Andy Johnson, Boss Tweed, Ben Buller, and the rest,—evidently forgetting that Chicago is too much of a metropolis to reliash the local calebraties of other places to an extent which uttirg excludes her own. It may be that Mr. Nast has not time to get acquainted with our public men, but he misses some excellent subjects. There, for example, is Long John Wentworth. Who can beat him in the way of length and breadth? Does any art need to caricature a facual orifice which has not its equal in the United States? We have also Charley Farwell, John B. Rice, Phil Hoyne, Harvey D. Colvin, Dan O'Hara, Jim McGrath, and a host of others—some of these handsome, and some of them not quite up to the standard of Apollo or Adonis.

But Mr. Nast evidently regards us as a village, to hatches the standard of Apollo or Adonis.

But Mr. Nast evidently regards us as a village, to hatches was a surface, who commenced an accides at an early hour. A few of his efforts were rather weak. The caricature of Napoleon crossing the Alps was the with a teakestile for a holler,—the typical John Bull, and the typical Tuele Sam produced uproarious laughter. Mr. Nast did not fail to caricature himself, and wound up his entertainment by appearing before the andience—on paper—in the usual uniform of a comfortably circumstanced gentleman about to withdraw for the night.

Mr. Nass would hardly secure an andience in this city again, unless he replenished his repertory.

CHICAGO MEDICAL COLLEGE. CHICAGO MEDICAL COLLEGE.

The final exercises of the medical class of 1874, of the Northwestern University, were held in the College Hall, corner of Twenty-sixth street and Prairie avenue, yesterday afternoon, a large audience being present.

The exercises, which were interspersed with music, began with prayer by the President, Dr. Fowler.

After the band had regaled the grave and

Prof. Merriman delivered

THE VALMDIOTORY ADDRESS, choosing for his theme, "The Medical Profession as a Means of Culture." He briefly drew the following conclusions, namely: That it exercised the memory, cultivated habits of close observation, encouraged habits of vigorous thought, taught the science of balancing probabilities, taught unselfishness and self-denial, kindliness and sympathy, and fostered religious feeling. At the conclusion of his fine address, the students and audience applauded vociferously. The exercises closed with the benediction, after which those who desired were invited to visit the college museum, where repose the bones of the mighty elephant Bomeo, and other curious physical souvenirs.

In the evening a reception was given the Faculty and students at the house of Prof.
Haines, No. 172 South Sangamou street.

SUNDAY LECTURES. A meeting of persons interested in the project of giving a course of lectures Sunday afternoons was held in Room 7 Stadts-Zeitung Building last evening. Mr. A. B. Reith was chosen Chairman and Mr. A. B. Mason Secretary. After a long and carnest debate, it was resolved:

The Chicago College of Pharmacy held its Commencement exercises in the iscture-room of the Methodist Church Block last evening. A fair andience assembled to listen to the address-es and the music. The President, se and the music. The President, commenced the exercises by delivering a short address to the graduating class, felicitating them upon the close of their college studies, but urging renewed and continued efforts in the study of their profession. He also spoks at some length of the value of a pharmaceutal education to the druggist. As it now cristed, he said, there were no restrictions in this State which outlawed the ignorant from dispensing medicine. A bill had been drafted in 1870, and sent down to the Legislature, which required druggists to pass an examination, but it had been lost eight of and never become a law. He hoped the time would dome when the diplomas of the proprietor and clerks of the establishment would hang in every drug-store.

DR. T. E. PATTERSON,

After concluding his address,

THE SHADVATING CLASS

were called to the platform and presented with their diplomas. The following are their names and the subject of their theses: Charles M. Ford, lacto phosphates; Littleton Thompson, dilute phosphoric seid; L. C. Hogan, pinkroot; Geo. H. Ackstram, specific gravity; Joseph Rosenthal, pokeroot; E. S. Stahl, Jr., wild cherry.

PROF. D. H. TRIMBLE.

then addressed the graduates in a long dissertation upon "the progress of materia medica." He closed by saying that the cellege had passed through many vicinstitudes, but was now on a firm basis, requiring only the sid and sympathy of the whole medical profession to insure a great and useful career.

without a failure in one instance. So highly did Dr. Pointer, of Charlotte County, prize one which he used in his practice, that, at the sale of his personal estate, it was run up to the sum of $3,900. Another, in Fairfax County, was sold for $1,500.

Mine was quite of a large size, and I had it divided, so that my son might take one into the army as a protection against snake-bites; so that I have three, and would sell two of them, since losing my children; but for no consideration would I alienate the last one from my family. These are of unequal sizes, though the smaller is entirely efficient, having to be applied the oftener; whereas the larger extracts all the virus by two or three applications, which are made after dipping it in warm water, and always sticks until the poison is extracted,—never afterwards.

It would seem that benevolent individuals of wealth could be found in your city, who would, for the small sum of $000 for the larger, and $200 for the smaller, procure these to be used in those cases recently bitten, and then to be kept in hospitals and advertised, when they might be used along the railroadines for 500 or 1,000 miles. Persons wishing further information may address Dr. R. H. Ayres, Gold Hill, Backingham County, Ya.

P. S. I will add that when a person has been bitten by a dog, the mad-stone will be effectual at any time, even for months after, before paroxyisms of hydrophobia, by renewing the wound alightly with a lancet or penknife. In a case that occurred in this county many years since,—a servant of Linnsens Bolriy, deceased,—this stone was applied after one paroxyam, and no other ever occurred, the cure being complete.

POLICY.

CRICAGO, March 9, 1874.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribbune:

Sin: It is useless for you to make a war upon the policy-shops in this city, as you cannot infure their business but temporarily. The Evening Post gave sufficient evidence of this fact a year ago. There are over forty policy-shops running in a prosperous condition as present, and Chicago is bound to have more. The authorities will not interfere with us so long as we conduct the business quietly and orderly (at least, so say the Polica Commissioners), and this we are bound to do.

I am greatly interested in the policy-shops, and trust you will not be foolish enough to insert such abuse about policy.

THE ADVOCATES OF JUSTICE.

To the Editor of The Chicago Pribune:

Size: The Order of the Advocates of Justice has frequently been called Mrs. Wynkoop's movement. This title is a misuomer, the real facts in the case being that Dr. Benham, of Bronson, Mieh., Mr. J. Perism. of the Western Rural, and a few others who had been members of an organization called the Patrons of Industry, which organization was discovered to be a fraud, determined to form one on a good solid basis, the foundation of which should be truth, right, and justice. The first meeting took place at our residence, and the organization was completed there, which led to the mistake.

BOARD OF MEALTH.

The Board of Health met yesterday afternoon. Commissio ner Schletzer in the chair. The report of the Sanitary Superintendent showed that there were 105 deaths during the week ending March 7, a decrease of 20 from the preceding week, and of 35 from the corresponding week in 1873. Of the deceased, 50 were under 3 years of age. Bronchitis killed 8, consumption 15, fevers 7, pneumonia 10, and small-pox 1. Six houses were reported as infected with small-pox; for the corresponding week last year there were 37. The monthly report of the same officer was also submitted. BOARD OF POLICE.

The Board of Police met yesterday at half-past 2, for the transaction of regular business. After swearing in several special policemen, and accepting the resignations of two regular officers, the continued case of Officer Hubbard was called. This officer, with Officer Day, was charged with inattention to duty and being asleep while on his post.

Rosnidsman Crogan, of the Fourth Precinct, was the principal witness, and his testimony was very direct and conclusive as to the officer's guilt. From all the testimony given, it was clearly shown that Hubbard was in the labit of loading and lounging when he should have been traveling his best. The defense endeavored to prove that there was ill-feeling exhisting between Crogan and Hubbard, but Crogan explained the matter by stating that Hubbard drew up a subscription-list to get a set of silver for Officer Reanian and present it to him on the day that Rafferty was hung at Waukegan, and that he, Crogan, opposed the whole thing.

Sergeant Hood, Officers Day and Hubbard, and the watchman in the rolling-mill, all testified in the case, but their testimony only went to corroborate that of Roundsman Crogan. The Board decided to take the case under advisement till to-day. The continued case of Detective Miller came up, and was again continued till to-day.

The Superintendent sent a communication to the Board ordered that the communication to the Board ordered that the communication be put on record.

Considerable interest always attaches to the annual Freshman declamation contest for the Kedzie prize, which took place at the Methodist Church Monday evening. A very large audence was present, and manifested a hearty appreciation of the performance by frequent applause. Excellent music was furnished by a string band, and did much to enliven the proceedings.

President Fowler presided, and Prot. D. H. Wheeler invoked the Divine blessing. Miss Anna A. Davis then tripped upon the platform, and declaimed the "Rhyme of the Duchees May" very gracefully and pretily. She was followed by W. L. Demorest, who spoke his "piece"—the "Burial March of Dundee"—with courage, but without any particular affect. F. E. Knappen came next, and gave "Everett's Eulogy on Washington," which was well delivered and well received. Mr. E. made a good appearance on the stage, and his effort was carofully prepared.

"Hegulus to the Carthaginians" was delivered by A. D. Early in a graceful manner, and with considerable skill and effect. Mr. Early enjoyed the advantage of a fine stage-presence and clear articulation.

Henry Frank, with deliberation and unction, declaimed the address of "Antony to the Romans." He showed unusual power as a declaimer, but possesses one or two unpleasant habits of speech, and the rendition of his selection was very much overwought.

Mr. Beck has replied to Mr. Gardeld's recent speech on the estimates and appropriations for the current year. In contradiction of the calculations of the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, he states that the appropriations will exceed the estimates by $15,000,000. MacMahon's party sees its strength in the French Assembly gradually dissolving in the increasing heat of the Republican sentiment in the Provinces. It hopes to deprive the Opposition in Paris of 40,000 votes by the disfranchisent of every one who has ever been punished in the criminal courts. Another scheme to dis-arm its enemies was developed in the Assembly yesterday in the presentation of a charge against Gambetta of having sacrificed the national defense to political designs while he was Dictator. The Right will attempt to have the charge acted upon at once, in the evident hope of bringing diagrace upon the great radical.

New Hampshire Democrats held a glorification meeting in Nashus last evening over the victory which they believed they had gained, but the latest returns this morning do not seem to sustain their exultation. Although the Republicans are shown to have lost 1,992 votes in 163 towns, the Democratic candidate does not appear to have the majority of all the votes cast, which, in New Hampshice, is necessary to an election. In 181 towns, the "horny-handed" McCutchins got 22,321; Weston, 23,193; Blackmer, 1,297. This is less than a majority for Weston, and, if the rest of the vote does not disturb these proportions, the election will go, as was expected, to the Legislature.

Not sated with the feast of corruption offered it by the Jayne business, and the Sanborn con-tracts, and the District investigation, the House of Representatives has called on the Secretary of War for all the papers in the court-martial of Capt. Cooke and his brother, Pitt Cooke, were others. Some of this ring had great influence with Secretary Stanton, and in some way the court-martial was suspended, and the papers hidden away in the archives of the War Department. Their publication is awaited with interest.

The proceedings of the Baptist Ecclesiastical

Council which convened yesterday to try the Rev. Florence McCarthy were a sorry exhibition of the Christian virtues, and will add to the dis-repute brought upon the professors of religion by the recent scandalous Episcopal Convention at Milwaukee. Throughout, on both sides, there is evident nothing better than bigotry or indiscretion which reaches to blackguardism. The Council has concluded the trial of the first four charges, and has adjourned till Thursday to consider some additional specifications which have been made against the accused. Mr. McCarthy made a vigorous protest in his own style against the injustice which refused him counsel, or a knowledge of the charges, or time in which to prepare himself for defense. some of the testimony and allegations presented are unfit for public bearing, and it a great pity that the church cannot settle a case like this without making so disagreeable and disgraceful same that the policy-shops shall not be disturbed as long as they are not disorderly. Superintendent Rehm owes it to the public to say whether this is the fact or not. If it is not a fact, Mr. Rehm should act; if it is, the Board of Police owe it to the public to remove Mr. Rehm.

In their report on the Soldiers' Orphans' Home, of this State, the Senate Special Combat bears and the state of t had been made to pay taxes that he did not owe,—an inquiry that will only amuse those who know, and Butler is among them, that the corknow, and Butler is among them, that the corruption and infamy of these contracts was in the manner of collecting taxes that were lawfully due, and could easily have been secured by the proper revenue officials. Butler spoke with great heat and at considerable length, but did not escape some of the punishment to which he exposed himself. Mr. Dawes expressed his surprise that Butler, who cared nothing for the newspapers, should have been driven by them to make this inopportune defense of himself. Mr. Foster, on whose motion the Sanborn report was got from the Secretary of the Treasury, showed great presence of mind in dealing with the Essex bully. He said, among other things, that the character of the system of tax-contracts was illustrated by that of two of the contractors, Hawley, of New York, and Simmons, of Boston. The former had been sent to the Penitentiary and the latter Butler had made Collector of Boston the latter Butler had made Collector of Boston.
Mr. Poster believes that three-fourths of the amount collected by Sanborn & Co. would have been got by the regular internal revenue officials, and 50 per cent saved. In the explanation which Mr. Garfield gave of the manner in which the law had been passed, he made it evitated the company of the company of the present that the company of the compa dent that its enactment was due to the per-sistence of the Senate, and was in spite of the

The fact that comparatively few men can deliberately sit down and elaborately sketch out a theory of death and its consequences, induces society to pronounce insane the man who can.
Coroners' juries, therefore, bring in, with solemn regularity, verdicts of "suicide white suffering from a fit of temporary insanity" upon those who take their lives and deaths into their edly insane at the time of the commission of the act. But can self-destruction be regarded as prima facie evidence of mental weakness? An Indianapolis paper gives the particulars of a case of suicide which is unique in its desherateness, and holds the question open. Hugh McGannon, a man of middle age, living at Franklin, Ind., had been unsuccessful in business, and saw no prospect of obtaining more than a more hand-to-mouth subsistence. His line of resecutive is obvious. proposed to exchange life for death on speculation. This view of the matter is sustained by the circumstances of his death. He dressed himself for interment, bound himself in a chair, so that when death occurred he should not fall and smear himself with blood; spread aprons and towels over his clothing to protect them from being soiled, wrote two or three notes disposing of his effects, and deliberately his wa hole in his head. This does not necessarily imply insanity. It looks something like a bold speculation, in which the speculator deliberately staked all he possessed against the boundless possibilities of the future.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

That the pork and provision trade of this city has received serious injury by reason of the shipment of soured meats, or meats in a condition to become sour, will, we think, be established by investigation, if an investigation is made by the Board of Trade or other responsible body. Whether this has resulted from an imperfect system of inspection, or from an attempt to handle the entire hog crop of the Northwest with inadequate facilities, or from both combined, we do not undertake to decide. We assume that any person who has suffered loss from the purchase of tainted meats at the price of sound and well of tainted meats at the price of sound and well cured, can get his money back without litigation; but that is not all that needs to be said. The reputation of Chicago meats is world-wide, and this reputation is a larger and more important part of our capital than the Stock-Yards, packing-houses, and smoke-houses combined. It should, therefore, be guarded more jealously.

The writer whose communication in last Saturday's Tribuns made such a hubbub among the recognition mean formishes another this more.

the provision men, furnishes another this morn-ing over his own signature. We judge from the tenor of it that he is not only ready for investigation, but determined to have it. We propose to assist him in getting it. It is either true, or it is not true, that buyers of meats in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Montresl, and other cities, have been imposed upon in this matter. If it is true, then the reputation of Chicago has been damaged by the fact, and not by the publication of it. If it is not true, then those buyers have slandered us, and deserve to be ex-posed. We regret to notice that some of the gentlemen who were so anxious to get the name of the writer of the article in THE TRIBUNE showed no alacrity to investigate after they had obtained what they wanted.

THE CUSTOM-HOUSE SPIES. The Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives at Washington have been for several weeks investigating the question of Custom-House extertions, committed under the sanction of law and for the benefit of the Custom-House officers. This system is the outgrowth of the law providing that one-half of all penalties shall be divided between the Collector, Naval Officer, Surveyor, and informer. The Government receives the other half. The plan of distribution is shown by the following, taken from a long list of actual cases :

the most honest intentions, to violate some pro-vision, thereby involving the confiscation of an descriptions given in the invoice, and on the invoice valuation, as corrected and examined by all these officers, the importer pays the duty.

In May, 1869, one George B. Jayne was appointed, through some local influence, Special Agent of the Treasury Department, and since then he has been using his official position to harass and oppress the importers in the most infamous manner. The case against Phelps, Dodge & Co., of New York, a year ago, and the more recent case of Jordan, Marsh & Co., of Boston, finally arrested the attention of Con-gress, and the Secretary of the Treasury was forced to recommend the abolition of the moiety system. The moiety system is wrong because it nolds out to the several departments of the Custom-House the temptation to permit errors and defects in the invoices to pass uncorrected, in order that, subsequently, the entire importation may be confiscated, and the value thereof distributed among those whose business it is to prevent the errors. Jayne's practice has been to get the information of technical errors or defects in invoices of importations, and then, by a secret statement before a court, obtain an order for the seizure of all the books and papers of the merchants, and removal of them from their stores. The goods were also seized if possible. In nine cases out of ten, this proceeding is fatal to the business of the accused person. The alleged Pending the seizure of the books, the business of the merchant is closed. The whole proceeding is summary and arbitrary. In the case of Phelps, Dodge & Co., the penalties demanded amounted to several several millions of dollars, on an allegation that, during several years' importations, exceeding two millions or more each year, there had been a loss of $500 of revenue. This was the charge. Finally the firm was released upon paying $271,000, of which the informer, Jayne, and the Customs officers received $135,000. At the beginning of the present session, the Committee on Ways and Means, on motion of Mr. Dawes, called for a lat of the Custom-House seizuree which had been compromised. The report has been furnished to Congress. It shows that in New York the saizures were over $4,000,000; that the whole amount of the duties coined were only $222,000; the court costs were $254,000; the Collectors got $407,000; the Naval Officers got $407,000; the Naval Offi

So violent were his denunciations that the Committee at once ordered that the investigation should be public, and that the accused merchants should have an opportunity to be heard. Jayne instantly resigned his office. It is the chief stumbling-block in the path of progress. All this is true, despite the many noble men and women who have devoted their lives to the service of the Mother Church. That Church retains, in the nipeteenth century, the habits and modes of thought of the sixteenth. Suppose this great organization should become the dominant power in Prussia, in Spain, in France, in England, and in America. In every case the State would become a mere adjunct t the Church. The cast-iron system of Government would not do here, but that does not prove its inapplicability everywhere. The Emperor's letter to Earl Russell, in reply to the London resolutions of sympathy with the Prussian Government, contains one masterly sentence. The writer contains one masterly sentence. The writer says:

It is time that he stopped invoking curses. It is time that he stopped invoking curses. It is time that he stopped invoking curses. It is time, in fact, that parties praying was stopped. In fact, the whole business of opening the Sevate with prayer has long ago fallen into contempt. Senators themselves treat the Chap-lain with contemptuous indifference, and show their appreciation of his prayer for the most part by staying outside till Amen is pronounced. They evidently look upon the prayer as being "all hire and salary, not revenge."

The fifth annual report of the Massachusett Board of Statistics of Labor, judged by an al stract that has reached us, is as valuable as its predecessors. It needs no higher praise. This Board gathers yearly the data for legislation through all future years. Its reports have put within every man's reach facts which a person of average intelligence might have sought before for years and in vain. They show the real and nominal wages paid here and abroad, the sort of life led by the working-classes, their comforts and discomforts, the hours of toil and the ages of the toilers, the comparative value of male and female work, the effect of labor laws, etc. They treat not only of day, but of year, laborers, of workers with muscle and with mind, of ditchers, mechanics, teachers, clergymen, and others.

This year's report says that the laws about compulsory education and the employment of children in factories are failures. About 25,000 children between 5 and 15 years of age receive no schooling whatever. The remedy is to be sought in a rigid enforcement of exist-ing laws. MORNING SESSION.

An adjourned assiste of the Council to investigate the charges against the Rev. Florence McCarthy began yesterday morning in the Union Park Raptist Church, the Rev. A. J. Frost in the chair. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Whitehead, and the minutes of the preceding session were read and corrected in a few unimportant particulars.

REGINNING WITH A DISPUTE.

Prof. Mitchell gave his views of the proper functions of the Council, which was not a jury, but rather a judiciary. There should be no special pleading on either side—only a fair and just presentation of facts. He tirged that there should be frankness and candor on the part of the accused, who should remember that he was in the hands of brother ministers who were disposed to lean in his favor. It was a mistake for him to set himself in opposition to the full presentation of facts.

Mr. McCarthy took exception to the statement that this was not a jury trial, and that formalities need not be charged. It was

Mr. Barry proposed to show that Brother McCarthy had been guilty of falsehood.

Prof. Mitchell objected, and the objection was sustained by the Moderator.

Mr. McLeish was cross-examined by Mr. McCarthy, and showed that he was not disposed to present a favorable view of the matter. He was saked whether he did not, subsequent to the conversation, have full confidence in the pastor. He declined to say whether his confidence remained unshaken, though he did maintain friendly relations with the pastor.

Mr. McCarthy asked if the witness had not wished, and advised, and planned to remove him from the pastorate, and bring in Mr. Cheney?

Mr. McLeish replied that he had never done anything of the sort.

Mr. Barry objected to such questions, and the Mitchell, who said the accused had the undoubted right to cross-examine the witness in a manner tending to show hostile motives.

Mr. McLeish went to relate how the pastor called Brother Smith a dury, low-lived skunk. This was after Brother Smith had called him a liar, and the language was used in the attempt to force a retraction.

Prof. Mitchell asked if the threat to disrupt the church had been carried out. The witness replied that such had been the result. A portion of the society was forced to withdraw and form the Ashland avenue society.

Deacon Couverse went over the ground of the violent language used, and the threat to split the church if Mr. McCarthy did not carry his point.

THERATE AGAINST MEMBERS.

The Council then resumed consideration of the charge of threats against members.

The Council then resumed consideration of the charge of threats against members.

Mr. Barry said he had a letter written by the accused to a young lady, also one written to himself, but the young lady had requested that the letter be not read.

Mr. McCarthy hoped that his love letter would not be read though it was unfair to maintake the contents of letters and not read them. He might retort by an insinuation concerning Mr. Barry's two wives in Utah, though he could not prove it.

The Rev. Mr. Reichenback put forward an inquiry: "If the young lady does not want the letter read, why did she give it to the prosecution?"

Mr. Gordon suggested the appointment of a committee to consider evidence and see if it were proper to be introduced. Mr. Barry might spring upon the Council testimeny very obtaining the council testiment of the council te nonable.

Mr. Barry resented this as an imputation of this Christian fairness and candor.

SHOOTING WAGNER.

Deacon Reed stated that at one time Mr. McCarthy said that he was about to do something to disgrace himself and the church, and he believed he should shote Mr. Wagner, the Churc'i Clerk, and he executed for it.

Mr. McCarthy—Did you fear that my passion would get the better of my reason, and that I should execute the threat?

Deacon Reed replied that he did fear that violence would be done Brother Wagner. He understood it to be a threat.

Mr. McCarthy—Did you ever see or know anything I did to carry out that threat? A—I never did.

thing I did to carry out that threat? A—I never did.

Q—Did I not show you a Christian spirit, and retract the threat that same night?

The Moderator—That does not affect the case at all. A man might confess a wrong, and yet do it over again a thousand times.

Desor n Merrill recited the language used by the accused in reference to shooting Mr. Wagner, saying that he would as soon go to jail as not.

Mr. Wagner was the next witness. He had understood that Mr. McCarthy entertained views so loose and immoral that he could not express them in public.

Air. McCarthy protested against such innuendoes. He wanted the thing told, and not

The Moderator said the Council could represe

Mr. Wagner went on to say that, in consequence of the pastor's immoral sentiments, he setured to allow his wife to be baptized by Mr.

Mr. Barry said he would like to have the whole thing come out.

Mr. Goodspeed objected to bringing it before the Council.

Mr. Wagner said the matters had been proved but he would prefer not to give them in the presence of ladies.

Mr. Goodspeed urged that the things be said. The ladies had not been invited, and the Council was not responsible for anything which might be necessary to say in their presence. Let them retire in advance, if they feared what was to be spoken. [Not a lady stirred.]

Prof. Mitchell esid he hoped the testimony would not be offered.

Mr. Everts said there was nothing so damning as mainuations.

The Bev. N. F. Ravlin, of the Temple Church here inquired if he could be considered a member of the Council. The Moderator was of the opinion that he could not be so considered.

Mr. McCarthy wanted Mr. Raylin to help him whether he, too, would be allowed to speak.
The Moderator said if the accused had counsel he must speak only through his counsel.

Mr. McCarthy said that in that case he would do without counsel.

It was a curious and significant fact that as soon as it became apparent that Mr. Raviin was favorable to the secured, the Council at ones had serious objections to his becoming a member, though a motion was finally put and carried that he be "invited to a seat" in the body, though without the right to vote. A motion was also carried, inviting all Haptist clergymen to to take a seat in the Council.

ALTITLE RAMBLING.

Mrs. Dr. Briggs was the Dext witness. She did not consider that Mr. McCarthy had threatened to shoot Brother Wagner, but he said he should probably be forced to it. It was one Sunday afternoon. She would state circumstances. The day before, Mr. McCarthy called at her house—

Mr. Barry objected to stating any conversation outside of the church.

The Moderator directed Mrs. Briggs to proceed. She asked the pastor what were the reports in circulation.

Mr. Barry objected.

Mrs. Briggs—"Don't be afraid, Brother Barry,"—and turned her back upon that person very indignantly. She said the pastor read her a paper which he wanted Wagner to sign. The following day she came to the Sabbath-school and found the pastor very nuch agitated. He said: "This church is diagracing itself. It will not vindicate the character of its pastor. I shall shoot Wagner." She begged him not to say that. Remembering a threat Deacon Pickell had made, which was—

The Moderator said this was not admissible. On cross-examination by Mr. McCarthy, Mrs. Briggs said he was in a high state of exasperation, and she understood that he meant to say he was afraid he should do a violent act—not that he intended or threatened to do it.

Mr. Barry asked why she was afraid the paster would do something to disturb the peace of the Sanday-school.

Mrs. Briggs said it was because Deacon Picket had threatened to "make a fina" in the school that day in case the pastor attempted to interfere with Deacon Jones in his duties.

It was very evident that Mrs. Briggs was afraid of a disturbance in the Sunday-school that day, She replied that it was because the disadvantage of having to deal with his superior in every respect.

Mr. McCarthy—Did you not express the same opinion on the occasion that Mr. Wilkie did?

A.—Perhaps I did.

Q.—Did that concurrence on your part imply that you were immoral and heentious? A.—No.

Moderator overruled the point.

Mr. Barry now grew excited, and declared that Mr. Gordon should not defrand him of his rights.
He admitted that he had full specifications in his pocket, which had not been furnished to Mr.
McCarthy.

Mr. Gordon moved that the Council go into secret session to determine whether any further testimony was necessary, and what action should be taken on the additional specifications. It could also be determined how much time the accused needed to prepare his defense.

A delegate asked if it was contemplated to go into secret session and decide the case without giving the accused a chance to offer rebutting testimony.

testimony.

Mr. McCarthy said that this was just what they wanted to do.

Dr. Goodspeed said he should be glad to know whether Brother McCarthy desired to defend himself on all the charges, and if so, how much time he required.

Mr. Barry moved that the permission be granted.

Mr. Goodspeed objected to it. Mr. McCarthy had talked more than anybody else in the Council. He had been treated with perfect fairness.

The Moderator said the motion to grant permission was out of order. Brother McCarthy should not read any protest or speak at all, except in his defense.

Mr. Goodspeed said the accused was constantly charging the Council with unfairness, and he readered it difficult to treat him without prejudice. The only thing for Mr. McCarthy to do was to state whether he wished to make a defense, and, if so, how much time he required.

HE WANTS TWO WEERS.

The Moderator asked these questions of the souse who stated that he did untend to make a defen, and would require two weeks.

Deacon Hoard suggested that, in order to facilitate business, copies of the new specifications should be furnished the accused.

Mr. Wells submitted that, until the evidence for the prosecution was all in, it was importiment to ask the accused how much time he required.

Mr. McCarthy inquired if a motion was not pending to grant him permission to present his protest.

The Moderator—That motion was withdrawn, and, if it had not been, it would be out of order.

Mr. McCarthy—Do you decide that I have no with to offer a protest?

The Moderator—I do.

Mr. McCarthy—It's an outrage. I'll publish it, then.

The Moderator—All right. I hope you will.

granted to the accused, and that a copy of the specifications be supplied him at once.

The Rev. Mr. Ravlin hoped the motion would prevail. The accused had not been as yet furnished with the ghost of a specification. Old matters had been raked up from the time when the pastor had been settled but three months, and since that time the accused had been dearly loved by his Church.

Mr. Barry and Prof. Mitchell called the geotleman to order for impugning the motives of the Council. colebrook, a Times reporter, in reference to the samons preached by Mr. McCarthy. Mr. Braymer was the next witness. He told about a private conversation with Mr. McCarthy on sexual subjects, in which the pastor, according to the witness, made comments unfit for publication, though the witness told it without hesitation in the presence of a large number of isdics.

Mr. Gordon said it was an outrage to be compelled to ask that specifications be furnished. The accused had a right to this.

On! Fig.

Mr. Barry—Allow me to say that what Brother Gordon has stated is a falsehood. [Sensation.] The accused has been provided with specifications, and how a man can stand up in the light of heaven and say the contrary is a mystery to me.

The Moderator hoped that coolness and moderation would reign.
Mr. Gordon said he should be perfectly calm.
Brother Barry's remarks were needless. He did not refer to the specifications of the four charges already examined.

Boon after 7 o'clock the Council assembled in secret session in the church auditorium for the purpose of considering the new specifications. No one was allowed to be present excepting the members of the Council, the accused, and his counsel. The reporters were rigidly excluded, but as Thu Thungar representative had the force.

but as The Triburke representative had the forethought to leave in one of the pews his overcost, with pencil and paper in the pocket, the design to maintain perfect privacy was thus frustrated in a manner quite mysterious and unaccountable to the Council. After the offering of prayer the Moderator called for the reading of the new specifications, which Mr. Barry had in his pocket. The Council graw nervous over the possibility that a reporter might be somewhere concealed, and mambers were sent to inspect the news, the gallery, and the bell-tower. The reading of the specifications was ordered, and they were read by Mr.
Barry. After some discussion as to the best mode of procedure, a committee of fire, with Mr. Goodspeed as Chairman, was appointed to sitt from the specifications the matters that had been already gone over in the examination, and report the remainder to the Council.

The point was raised that Mr. McCarthyshould be furnished with a copy of the specifications, including the names of witnesses. Mr.
Goodspeed opposed this, and Messra. Everts and Gordon Insisted that justice and fairness required it. They were in the minority, and the Council refused to exact it of the prosecutor.

In the course of the discussion several delegates spoke against acting upon any new specifications, believing that enough had been already proven against the accused to establish his unitness to continue in the ministry.

Mr. Barry, Mr. Goodspeed, and the church party in general were solid in favor of taking up the new matter, and it was so decided.

THE NEW SPECIFICATIONS.

The Committee finally agreed upon a basis of procedure, and reported recommending that the Council proceed to try McCarthy upon the following charges and specifications:

VETOES BY THE GOVERNOS.

St. PAUL, Minn. March 10.—Gov. Davis today filed a number of vetoes. Among the bills thus lost are those breaking up the organization of Cass County and attaching part of its territory to other counties, which he pronounces unconstitutional, besides objectionable in not providing for the payment of the debts of Cass constitutional, besides objectionable in not providing for the payment of the debts of Cass County incurred under authority of the State law. Probably that county will be better managed hereafter, but pine-land owners feel sore at not escaping the payment of $27,000 incumbrance on their lands in that county.

The vetoes include all the bills disturbing the system of the County Superintendency of Schools established last year; also, the bill authorizing suits to be brought in the name of the Attorney-General by aggraved parties for the forfeiture of railway charters; also the bill amending the statutes relating to corporations by which they are empowered to take private property for public uses, which would lead to higation between the nailread companies and the owners of the condemned property, thereby compelling the companies to abandon the selected lines without sufficient cause, but in no case giving the owner damages if the company chose to abandon the property.

Sr. Louis, March 10.—The local sensation here continues to be the libes suit of the Hon. Stilson Hutchins, editor of the Dispatch, and member of the Legislature, against the proprietor of the Times. Damages are laid at $100,000. The defendants proceeded with the depositions to-day. Joel Harper, ex-City Register, testified that when he was an applicant for the County Collectorship, Hutchins assumed to have control of the County Court, and effered to elect Harper for $10,000 in cash or one-third the net profits. The examination is held with closed doors, both parties—having agreed to suppress the testimony till it is filled in court. The supposition is that neither party will parmit the case to some to trial, on account of the damaging disclosures of the testimony.

Mr. Cowan Beclares His Readiness to Prove Lis Statements.

Motions Made for Committees to Investigate.

Adjournment Without Action.

When Mr. Oldershaw had finished the after-noon call in the Open Board of Trade yesterday, Mr. B. F. Murphy moved that the chair be taken by Mr. James Turner, so that the report of the Committee appointed to wait upon the editor of The Theore might be heard. Mr. Turner ac-cordingly assumed the chair and wielded the gavel.

THE NAME ANNOUNCED.

Mr. Counselman stated that the Committee of Five waited upon Mr. White on the preceding afternoon, and that gentleman had informed him that Mr. George Cowan was the author of the objectionable article. He was sorry that Mr. Cowan had to suffer for anything.

There were loud cries of "Cowan."

There were loud cries of "Cowan."

Mr. Cowan came forward and said that he was responsible for that publication, and he was in a position to prove that what he had said was true. He did not know whether this was an Orange Lodge or what, but supposed that a man had a right to express his individual opinion. [Applanes]

Mr. Counselman said that the most objectionable feature about the article of the 7th, was the statement that packers and brokers had knowledge of the fact that meats were sour when soid to customers. The history of the trade went to show that meats had been found sour after shipment—people would complain at all times.

Mr. Cowan—Don't slap your leg off. [Laughter.]

Mr. Cowan—Don't siap your leg off. [Laughter.]

Mr. Cowan—Bon't siap your leg off. [Laughter.]

Mr. Counselman continued by saying that he would like Mr. Cowan to explain what he meant by charging collusion on the bart of the brokers. As one of the latter, he protested.

Mr. Culbertson inquired for his own satisfaction, whether Mr. Cowan could prove his allegations relative to soured meats, and the knowledge of the trade as to their condition when shipped.

Several persons cried out that Mr. Cowan was inandible, and wanted him to take the stand.

The uproar became so aggravated that the Chair was obliged to interfere for the restoration of order.

Mr. Culbertson—I want to ask Mr. Cowan whether he has proof for saying that there was a larger proportion of soured meats this season than at any other. The testimony of all receivers will show that the proportion is much less.

Mr. Cowan—The testimony of all receivers will show a very different state of affairs—quite the reverse in fact, for the number of complaints is far in excess of anything yet heard of here. [Great turmoil.]

Mr. H. C. Ranney—I move that a committee of five be appointed to investigate this whole business of sour meats. It is about time we get through with this business.

Mr. Counselman—I move to lay the motion just made on the table.

The motion to table was carried amidst great uproar.

Mr. Colbertson—I want to know from Mr.

The motion to table was carried amide, green uproar.

Mr. Culbertson—I want to know from Mr. Cowan what are his proofs. He has made some vary strong allegations.

Mr. Cowan—I refuse to recognize this as a regularly constituted court. If you can show me a proper tribunal, I'll show you my proofs. [Noise.]

Mr. Culbertson—Oh, of course; your statement must be entirely voluntary. We want nothing else.

A Lettle Riotous. nothing else.

Mr. Dow—This matter is growing more confused. I move that we do now adjourn.

The motion produced some excitement, about fifty people speaking at one time, but finally a vote was taken, and the motion declared lost.

Mr. Counselman—I wish to have it understood—

Er. Dow—I want to know whether Mr. Cowan was summoned here in star-chamber fashion, or was summoned here in star-chamber fashion, or whether he came of his own accord? Mr. Culbertson—He is here entirely by his own will. No one pretends that he could be forced heard? Why crowd him down there where no one but a few of you can hear what he is saying? If he has any testimony, I want him to put it in and let us proceed upon that.

Mr. Culbertson—We pretend to no authority compelling Mr. Cowan to give evidence. As I have stated, his action must be voluntary.

Mr. B. P. Hutchineon [from a remote corner]—

Mr. B. P. Hutchinson [from a remote corner]— I move that Mr. Cowan have leave to retire as soon as he pleases.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

Mr. Dow (indignantly, mistaking the motion of Mr. Hutchinson)—I'll leave here when I get ready—not before. [Roars of laughter and ironical cheering.]

Mr. Lawrence—Mr. Dow is laboring under a daluaton. He was not referred to.

ever.

Mr. Hutchinson—Hang it, Dow, I did not speak of you at all. It was Cowan I made the motion about.

Mr. Dow—Yes, you did move for me to get out of here. I'll go when I like. I'll stand here until I get ready to leave. [Cheers and terrible noise.]

Mr. Dow—I move to adjourn.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Culbertson—Let us take this thing more calmly.

The motion was lost.

Mr. Culberison—Let us take this thing more calmly.

JUST ONE WORD.

Mr. Bloom—Mr. Chairman, I wan't to speak one word. [Langhter. Tremendous cries for "Bloom." "Get on a chair;" and so on.]

Mr. Bloom—Let me say one word then.
[Langhter].

Col. Hancock—I move that this matter be indefinitely poetponed. [Confusion.]

Mr. Bloom—Let me just say one word. [Cries of "Dry up."] The extreme South send us fresh shoulders in summer months. How can we keep them fresh for the South?

This problem was evidently regarded as a poser, for nobody took any paine to solve it.

INDETISITE POSTONEMENT.

Col. Hancock—I call for the vote on my motion to postpone action.

The Chair—Vote then, on Col. Hancock's motion. As many of you as are in favor will say "aye."

There were several "ayes." The "noes" were loud but few.

As the Chair appeared to be undecided,

Col. Hancock said: I call for the ruling of the Chair on my motion. I heard a good substantial affirmative vote, and some bellowing negatives. [Noise.] I call for a division.

This produced more discord, in the midst of which the Chair appeared to be powerless.

Mr. Culbertson—Let us not be in such a hurry to adjourn. There appears to be a disposition of that kind for some reason. I reme my motion that a committee of five be appointed by the Chair to investigate this whole matter of soured meats.

Mr. Counselman—It is the question of collection in which to the collection of the proper are most inter-soured meats.

Mr. Counselman—It is the question of col-lusion in which I, as a broker, am most inter-ested.

ested.

Mr. Dow—I move to adjourn.

The Chair—I must consider about that Committee. I will not appoint it now.

Mr. Ranney—You had to come down to my proposition at last.

Mr. Davis' motion to adjourn was then put and carried, leaving Mr. Culbertson's motion for an investigation still pending.

The Bank of Chicago also commenced a suit against both Cleary and Miller for an injunction.

The argument in the Cheney case was continued yesterday. It was, however, interrupted in the moraling to allow Bishop Whitehouse to give his testimony concerning certain customs of the Episcopal Church, and especially of this diocese, with reference to certain services such as the burial service and family prayer, which were sometimes omitted. Mr. Judd then resumed his argument in the afternoon and will continue it to-day.

Saloon-Kempers' Thouries.

Jacob Lens filed a bill against John D. Long and Israel Epistein, to restrain them from selling a saloon, No. 89 Dearborn street. Complainant states that he sold to Epistein 275 worth of goods, on the latter representing that he had recently bought said saloon of Long. He also took a judgment note for the amount for further security. When the note fell due, it was not paid, and judgment was entered up thereon. Long had also told compliainant that Epistein owned the saloon, and that he was responsible, and had paid for the saloon. When Lenz came to issue the execution, however, on his judgment he was surprised to learn that Epistein had given a mortgage on the saloon for $1,900, which was not recorded until shortly before complainant entered up judgment. Long has now taken possession of the property, and threatens to sell it to-day. Complainant avers that the mortgage is frandulent, and was given to defraud him out of his money, Epistein not being worth anything beyond the value of the saloon. He therefore acked for an injunction, which was granted under a bond for $200.

THE COWLES MACHINE CASE.

Benjamin Robinson, one of the defendants in the suit of Edwin Holmes sgainst Robinson and others, filed his answer, sileging that he and Holmes were partners; that he had fauthfully fulfilled his part of the contract, and denying each and every allegation of fraud. He alleged that he took the stock, as charged in the bill, in his own rights as partner.

Mr. Webb and Mr. Weed are not the only sur-Mr. Webb and Mr. Weed are not the only survivors of the brilliant array of his contemporaties referred to. The Hon. Encs T. Throop was a principal figure in that group, with Marcy, Ben Knower (his father-in-law). Jamer Porter (Register in Chancery). Walworth, Ersetus Corning, and Azariah C. Flagg. Gov. Throop was elected Licutemant-Governor on the ticket with Mr. Van Buren, in 1823, and became Acting Governor on Mr. Van Buren's accepting the Portfolio of State under Gen. Jackson, and was himself elected Governor for the next term. It was while Mr. Throop was Governor that Mr. Fillmore made his first leading effort in the Assembly, denouncing the Democratic war, then recently haugurated, upon the United States Bank. Gov. Throop still survives, at the advanced are of about 30 years, yet hale and hearty, at his residence on the shores of the besutiful Owasco. Surrounded by relatives and "troops of friends." He was one in that distinguished circle to which you refer, and, in his green old age, yet has the leve and regard of those who, though young, participated with him in the events of that period.

Special Distracts to The Chicago Tribune.
Columnus, O., March 10.—The women's whisky crusade still continues. The women make daily visits to the saloons, holding their devotional services when permitted, and dispensing therewith when the same would be disagreeable to the proprietors. The city is being thoroughly canvassed by indices, soliciting names to their total abstinence pledge. Four bands of the crusaders were out to-day. They visited many saloons, but did not succeed in forcing any of the liquor dealers to surrender. Mr. Farr, proprietor of a billiard-hall, is the only person who has yet complied with the requests saloons, but did not succeed in foreing any of the liquor dealers to surrender. Mr. Farr, proprietor of a billiard-hall, is the only person who has yet complied with the requests of the ladies. He is their first capture.

He has published a card declaring that from this date he will discontinue the sale of all alcoholic drinks in connection with his establishment.
The excitement over the movement continues mab ated, although the ladies, in passing to and fro upon their mission, attract less attention than lormetly. The Young Men's Christian Assosiation, in view of the present temperance agilation, have engaged Gough to lecture here Thursday evening upon temperance. The exretement has likewiss invaded the circles of theatre-goers, and they have prevailed on the Athensum manager to revive "Ten Nights In a Bar-Boon," which will be done Fricay evening, Mr. E. T. Stetson appearing as the star.

Darron, O., March 10.—Another day of intense excitement. The crusaders marched this afternoon in three detachments of twenty each, and stormed thirteen saloons on Frith and Third streets. Their operations were of the ordinary character. A great turbulent rabble followed them from place to place, and the turmont at times was almost deafening. The voices of prayer and song were frequently inaudible.
Hibald jests were bandied about the outside mob, with indecent, loud talk and rough awearing.
Crowds of beer-drinkers pressed into invested saloons and drank as fast as they could, moezing the praying women with loud blasphemy and louder bacchanalian songs. Even women joined in the ribaldry, and in one place fung out bits of bologna and fragments of crackers among the cruesding women, who meetly borot these galling insults, and persisted in praying. The band which went to West Third street passed the corporation line to the saloons where the veterans from the Soldiers Home meetly each of the results and proper as blackguards can be. As a matter of course, the tending-room remained, and then filled up the large Sunday-sc

Work will be resumed to-morrow, with similar spectacles.

AT GEMENVILLE.

Darko O., March 10.—A telegram to the Journal from Greenville, Darke County, announces the complete capitulation of all the saloons (nineteen) of every kind, so that no liquors of any kind can be bought hereafter. The conquest is marvelous, Greenville being one of the most turbulent places in this valley. The town is blazing with enthusiasm. The temperance people are amazed at their victory.

AT CINCINNATI, O., March 10.—Large temperance mass-meetings were held to-night in Wesley Chapel and the Fifth Presbyterian Church. There will be mass-meetings of women to-morrow afternood, and mass-meetings in our churches Thursday night. Friday has been appointed for fasting and prayer in all the churches. Resolutions have been adopted by the women to commence the circulation of property-lodders, dealers, physicians, and druggists' pledges at once, and to visit the wives of saloon-keepers to-morrow. The city will be districted, and work will commence very soon by small committees in a quiet way, something like the Worcester, Mass., plan. Two grocets dealing in liquors were reported as having abandoned the traile. Organization for work has not been completed, and annollments of workers have not been perfected. The subject excites general interest.

RENVILLE, O., March 10.—The temperance rate villa, U., March 10.—The temperance reform is progressing, and accomplishing grand results. The Turpin House saloon is closed. The proprietor thanked the ladies kind-y for the interest taken in him, and will sell no more. Burch, a liquor-dealer, signed the lruggista' piedge. King, a saloon-keeper, has igned the piedge. Bushman has renounced the raffic, and several barrels of liquor were relic, and several barrels of liquor were re-ned to Piqua and Dayton.

AT VAN WERT.

Snecial Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

VAN WERT, O., March 10.—The temperance movement is still progressing favorably. There were crowded houses, both at the morning and evening services. The ladies are determined to prosecute the war with untiring vigilance. Two saloon-keepers surrendered this morning.

AT GALION.

AT GALION.

GAZION, O., March 10.—The temperance excitement is gaining strength. Over 100 ladies visited the two largest saloons to-day and held prayer-meetings. Special Dispatch to the Chicago Probune.

South Bend, Ind., March 10.—This morning, at 10 o'clock, there assembled at the First Methodist Church upward of 100 ladies and quite a number of gentlemen to organize for a temperance movement. The proceedings were somewhat inharmonious, but all seemed to accord in the fact that, if anything were done, the women must take the lead, and that they must have the support and countenance of the men. As or-ganization was effected by placing Mrs. J. A. Hencks in the chair and making Mrs. H. B. Hine Secretary. The Rev. Mr. Young led in prayer.

A Mirs. Dunbar was uncertain of the proper course to pursue, but she remembered that men had, in the past, tried to put down the traffic in liquors, and failed, and now the Lord had put the cause in the hands of the weaker sex. She was ready to do what should be deemed best, Mirs. Tutt had tried always to be temperate in religion, living, dress, and all things; and thought the visiting of saloons was appalling. Yet she would do ANYTHING FOR THE CAUSE and the friends she loved, even to the going down into the lowest gutter in the town in prayer for them.

But if the men would sustain the women, and they would work with faith in God, they would succeed.

James Huey wanted prayer exhortation and singing, and detectives employed to look after violators of the law.

Eider Toung was convinced that the time had come to do something. There were twenty-six galoous in our midst, and it took considerable dinking to support them. He wanted ladies to circulate the pledges, and was sure their influence would be felt. And if one plan did not succeed he would try another.

The Rev. Mr. Gobin was in favor of a firm, resolute campaign against king alcohol, and thought a mass-meeting should be held. He believed that this excitement sweeping over the land was an irrepressible conflict against liquir. It was a conviction with him that if men had suffered as much from

THE INTEMPRANCE OF WOMEN as woman had from that of the men, there would not be a saloon in the land to-day.

Mr. Mills said they wanted public sentiment, and if the start from Ohio had not been made the call would not have brought forty to such a meeting as this.

Elder Boyd wanted to know whether this was a woman's meeting or not. He was afraid the men wend do pold spoil the work.

Eider Cissei thought that if the Baxter law were properly carried out and looked after, there would be little left to do.

Kmally a committee of seven was appointed to arrange a programme. They reported in favor of holding a mass-meeting in Good's Opera-House next Sunday afteruoon. The report was adopted by the meeting. Other committees were appointed to aid in the cause; and though the spirit here moves slowly, yet it is understood to be the intention of a large number to make the movement an effective one.

NEW YORK.

IN NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Methodist Ministers' Association, to its deliberations yesterday, took strong grounds in favor of total abstinence. One clergy man wished the Methodist Church to clear herself of any complication with the eval of intemperance in harboring members who derived any revenue from the sale of liquor, or used it in any way. Some clergymen, he said, had obtained samples of brandy that was sold in first-class hotels in the city and tested it. None of the samples proved to be brandy; and the only difference in the poison was that in some places it was sold cheaper than in others. A part of next Sunday's services, in all of the Methodist Churches, is to be devoted to temperance, and the discussion is to be continued next ance, and the discussion is to be continu Monday.

Case of the Women Elected to School Offices in Massachusetts.

Special passach to the change tribune.

Boston, March 10.—Although the Supreme Court of the State has decided that there are no constitutional objections to the election of women to the School Committees in this State, new perplexities bid fair to involve this question, and according to present appearances, it will be some time before the women elected last fall take their seats in the School Board, which, not satisfied with the decision of the court, referred the matter to the City Solicitor. That official sent his opinion to the Committee to-night, and it was again adverse to the women. He said that he had always agreed with the position of the court, that there was no constitutional objections, but took the ground that their election was illegal, according to the statutes of the State. It is probable that the Legislature will now pass a law legalizing the election of women to such positions.

He want on, however, to explain the circumstances, and to argue that the law had not been violated.

Reverting to Mr. Beet's intimation about the Sanborn contracts, he said he did not know who had engineered that bill. If it was the gentleman from Ohio (Gartield), that gentleman had not done badly in that respect. He had seen in the public prints that he (Buder) had engineered it. They did him honor overmuch. If he had engineered that hill in the interest of Sanborn, he would have seen to it that Sanborn would have got the contract first. He had examined voluminous correspondence sent to the House on the subject, and his own (Butler's) name was almost the only name of a member which did not appear in it. He had never recommended that Sanborn should have the contract, and did not know asything of it until after Sanborn had got it. If Sanborn had asked him about taking the contract, he would have advised him against it, because there were envious men, malicious men, lying men, who would insist that he had done wrong; that he would be abused in the newspapers, and that if he was sensitive at all he would neverget money enough to compensate him. But he had not asked his advice. The Administration had been attacked in this matter by a corrupt press, egged on and paid by the very men who had cheated the Government out of its taxes. He went on to give the history of the law and the reasons for giving out such a contract. The object was to ascertain cases of delinquent taxes due from railroads, from whisky dealers, and from heirs of rich successions. Among other things, the Eric Railroad Company had set the newspapers on Sanborn, in order to get the law repealed, and to get up a row in Congress over it until the time for collecting these delinquent taxes had passed.

Mr. BUTLER-eppied that none of it had been collected yet, because the Eric Railroad Company had set the newspapers on Sanborn, in order to is apparent, it is that the contracts, from their inception to the present time, are buoyant with corruption.

Mr. BUTLER—Precesely as corrupt as I suppose the Secretary of the Treasury was fraudulent in spending the balances. It is easy to say "corrupt." If you show me anybody who has been called upon to pay taxes that he did not owe, I will be hard enough. [Laughter]. I stand here not to be frightened by hard words on this matter. If any man can controvert one single word of what I have said I will be ready to meet him anywhere, under any responsibility.

Mr. ELDRIDGE asked whether it would not have been more in consonance with Republican institutions and a Republican Administration to have removed the officers who failed to do their duty, and put in their stead good men who would have lexecuted the law so as not to necessitate any such proceedings.

Mr. BUTLER replied that the question was, in effect, whether it would not be better for everybody to do his own duty? He agreed that it was; but these derelict taxes had been concealed, and never would have been collected but for the efforts of the contractor.

Mr. FOSTER, a member of the Committee of Wava and Means, said that he had offered the resolution under which the Sanborn contract had been made. He was also authorized by the Committee of Waya and Means to report a bill the repeal that haw. He undertook to say that three-fourths of all the sollections made under

Mr. HAWLEY (Conn.) related the case of George W. Williams & Oo. of Hartford, who had, under pressure, paid back-taxes under this sanborn contract, although the Collector and Commissioners of Internal Revenue had decided both before and after that they were not able for those taxes. The law might be just, ut the execution of it was infamous. It was lackmailing.

but the execution of it was infamous. It we blackmailing.

Mr. BUTLER was glad to have one case specified,—and what was it? It was the case of natent-medicine dearer who had not paid heares, but who, after having had time to take company paid them under these contracts. had not been charged that any penalties he been inflicted. Whate was the infamy in that he (Butler) failed to see it. If the tax had bee wrongfully paid, it could have been returned the Secretary of the Treasury, but this firm he never applied for it. He supposed they had no got over their scare yet.

Mr. DAWES protested against this discussion now—

Mr. DAWES protested against this discussion now—

[Voices—"Let it go on."]

Mr. FOSTER said that the effect of the law had been that, instead of these contractors assisting the revenue officers in the discovery of back-taxes, the revenue officer had been assisting them for which they (the contractors) had caived $215,000. A large amount of taxes had been collected by two men, one of them Simmons, the then Supervisor for Massachusetts, and the other, Hawley, of New York. One of those gentlemen had been since indicted, and would probably go to the Penitentiary, while the other had been promoted to the Collectorship of Boston. [Langhter.]

Mr. BUTLER expressed the wish that 500 Sanborns could be let out on the rascale who had been defrauding the Government, and then Congress would not be obliged to tax the poor man's tea, and coffee, and matches. There were still $15,000,000 of these derelict taxes uncollected, and Sanborn only wanted to be let loose upon them.

Mr. FOSTER made some further remarks, in

Mr. FOSTER made some further remarks, in which he alluded to Butler as an attorney for Sanborn.

Mr. BUTLER denied that he was Sanborn's attorney. He has never been retained in a case by him, but he had hoped to be, and he would give his best services, very cheap, in helping to get taxes out of these railroad companies. In retort to Foster's allusion he said that at one time God came down from heaven to punish a misstatement, and that was not because he had kept back part of the truth

Mr. HALE (Me.) denounced the whole system of spices and informers, and special agents. It looked to him as if the Treasury Department was run for their benefit, instead of their soting for the benefit of the Treasury Department. He would bid the Committee of Ways and Means Godspeed in their efforts to repeal the law.

Mr. DAWES regarded the whole discussion as premature, and expressed his amazement that his colleague (Butler) had rushed into the debate, and had insisted on discussing the merits of the Sanborn contracts when his name had been in no manner connected with it except by the public press, and as his colleague had proclaimed that he had no regard for the public press, he supposed he would have been willing to wait till the matter came regularly before the House. He denounced the policy of farming out revenues. The effect of it was carrupting.

Mr. ROBERTS (N. Y.), another member of the Committee of Ways and Means, expressed himself to the same affect. The country, he said, did not want such blood-money.

Mr. PHELPS detailed how, as an executor of an estate, he had been called upon to pay tax on a residuary estate before the matter had been settled up, and how he had to estimate what the amount might be about $15,000, under the anxiety of those contractors whose position he did not know at the time to collect the money in order to rest the 50 per cent.

Mr. HAWLEY (Coun.) denounced the Sanborn contracts as diesendirshe to the Govern born contracts as discreditable to the Government.

Mr. COK—And to the Republican party.

Mr. RANDALL said he had opposed the passage of the measure under which the Sanborn contracts were given, and would detail at the proper time some of its history. Those officers had exercised their tyranny in Philadelphia in a manner that even the gentleman from Massachusetts (Butler) would hardly defeud.

Mr. BUTLER—If it was bad I will not defend it.

Mr. PHELPS said that on looking over the report on these Sanborn contracts he found right below an item with which he had a personal connection, and which he had detailed to the House, similar items in regard to the estates of two other distinguished men in New York—William Curtis Noyes and F. Edmund Penfield—and he presumed that the circumstances in those cases were similar to the case that had occurred within his own experience.

Mr. GARFIELD expressed his astonishment that Mr. Beck had connected his name with the Sanborn contracts, and he proceeded to give the history of the law under which the contracts.

Treasury to make contracts for the collection of unpaid taxes. He had taken that clause himself to hir. Boutwell and asked whether he desired to have it put into the law. Mr. Boutwell had dissented from it, and expressed his disbelief in the polery of it. On reporting that fact to the Committee, it was unanimously rejected, and the bill passed the House not contaming it. The bill came back from the Senate with that clause in it, and the Committee on Appropriations recommended it to be struck out, and it was struck out. Subsequently in Conference Committee, the Senate conferees were strong and decided in their determination to keep that clause in. Finding that the Senate bonferees would not yield, the House conferees had undertaken to obviste its objection byputting into the law that no contract should be given to collect taxes under that arrangement unless the statement was first filed, under oath, setting forth etactiy the companies, corporations, or individuals who owed taxes, etc. That was the only condition on which the House conferees would agree to the clause. He knew of no act, or part of an act, that had been more positively insisted on by ony body and opposed by the other, than that. It was, therefore, gross injustice to say that he had engineered the measure, or that any member of the Appropriation Committee had engineered it.

Mr. GARFIELD then proceeded to reply to Mr. Beck on the subject of estimates and appropriations, and as to whether the sinking fund was or was not instituted in certain figures, he asserting one position and Mr. Beck insisting on opposite position. Without the question being eludidated to the estimaterion of estimates and appropriations, or being made very plain to the Committee, the Committee rose.

The SPEAKER announced that Messra. Wheeler and Typer having asked to be excured from service on the Committee to attend the Fillmore obsequies, he had appointed in their places Messra. McDougail and Saylor (Ind.), and that Mr. Bass would act as Chairman of the Committee.

The House adjourned. SNOW-BOUND.
